The following vary vastly in terms of financial success, but I want an innovation that, at least in the number of users and popularity, would firmly place us among a list like this

ebay
paypal
bittorrent
napster
friendster
etrade
yahoo
google
winamp
kazaa
winzip
icq
jasc paintshop pro
match.com
wikipedia

I'm excluding livejournal, because despite its financial success and popularity, I think livejournal is ultimately an intellectually unsatisfying and pathetic project
